

The Return to Felicity

Mohammad Hossein Nasajian Moghadam

mh.nasajian@gmail.com

Researcher of management and humanities, PHD student of behavior and human resources of Imam Sadiq University (a's)

Interested in research in the fields of history of philosophy, Islamic anthropology, psychology, organizational behavior and human resource management

Today, the focus of studies in the field of human sciences (political, economic, cultural sciences) and theoretical sciences (medical, technical and engineering) has been to organize human life.

In such a way that studies are being carried out day by day to achieve the best way of life, from the beginning of mankind until now, the way of life of humans has undergone changes due to various historical and social reasons, and it is strange that after the passing of centuries, since the presence of this creature Two-legged talker in the world, a best path for man has not yet been determined, although the requirements of human societies are changing, but it can be seriously acknowledged that the first man is the same as the modern man today.

So why is it that researches have not yet reached a clear answer regarding humans. The study of human beings has many different dimensions, social sciences shape human relationships with each other, and experimental and engineering sciences lead to the shaping of the world around them, for example, if law science leads to the determination of human tasks in social relations and medical science to examine health. The constituent parts of the human body pay; Can we claim that we have complete nobility over all the preparations for achieving the best way of human life? Human resource management is one of the sciences of studying human relations in the organization, it was formed in a special way from the industrial revolution, where in order to achieve a common goal, it was necessary for a number of people to coordinate with each other in order to achieve the goals.

The science that which tries not only to investigate the nature of the relationships of people in the organization, but also to how interactions are carried out to realize the efficiency and effectiveness of the organization; We see theories and analysis from different angles about humans, but even in successful organizations, many questions about employees remain unanswered. This was only an introduction to understanding the question of whether there is really the best way to achieve happiness in the world for humans. Who is this person and where did he come from and where is he going? And all these are grounds for doubt that we should have about the sciences of our time. With reflection, we will realize that behind the existing order in the world of creation, there is a regulator, otherwise it is not possible that all this precision and elegance could have been achieved by chance. So, based on logic and common sense, in order to achieve the best way of life, one should turn to the creator of man and the world. In the history of mankind, we have witnessed many messengers who have introduced themselves as messengers of the Creator, that miracles have appeared to them from the side of God to prove the truth of their claims. Although each of them was a messenger from the Lord, but the messages should be understood by considering their own circumstances and times, for this purpose today, the last prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him), the book of the Qur'an and the religion of Islam should be considered as a standard. By observing the evolution of social science theories, we have seen rays from the foundations of divine religions in the formation of theories, and at some point, in history, we are witnessing the formation of a theoretical gap between the foundations of social science theory, which is known as the Renaissance. An era in which religions have lost their function and role due to the distortions created in religious and divine knowledge. In this way, instead of defining religion from life, the definition of human life a person, who knows the good and evil of his life. have made the criterion for shaping their ideas. It is safe to say that this theoretical gap is the main reason for not getting to know the truth of creation. This is how we should refer to the sources of Islam to answer the questions of what, why and how human is. By examining man from the point of view of religious and Islamic sources, we see different aspects of man's creation, a man who will not be mortal before his creation in eternity and after his death, but death is the only mover of him from worldly life to the Purgatory world. From this point of view, man is not a material dimension that is examined using medical science, but it will have a separate dimension from matter called soul, so that all actions and states of man originate from this aspect of man. As it has been said, so far in the science of human resources management, only the nature of human relationships in the organization have been discussed, but the why and what of man has not been investigated. In this way, the necessity of examining human beings from the perspective of divine religions is proven. in divine religions, man is a two-dimensional being, one physical dimension, and the one in the body, in the service of another, that is, the spiritual dimension, which is separated from matter, is called the soul. The soul is the creator of all human thoughts and actions, what the Islamic philosophers have related to the soul is its division into plant, animal and human levels. The soul, a reality separated from matter, is the only path to divine knowledge. Since the purpose of human creation was nothing but the worship of Hazrat Haqq, it is by knowing the self that man can achieve the most accurate knowledge of himself and the world of creation. modern humanities, only the material dimension of man is emphasized in medical sciences, psychology and behaviorism, which have finally led to the presentation of models at the level of the material body of man. many problems related to man, which we consider to be caused by the conditions related to his body, is rooted in the conditions governing his soul. The plant soul is the carrier of the causes of nutrition and physical growth, the animal soul is the cause of movement and Perception of details, and the human soul is also the carrier of reason, and until the powers of the human level, i.e. reason, do not rule over the other powers of the lower orders, man is trapped in the response of his lower order i.e. which is will remain on level of a vegetable and an animal. and in this way, the goal of his creation which is to achieve eternal happiness will not be realized. In this way, by examining man in two dimensions, physical and spiritual, we will witness serious changes in the evaluation criteria and planning of man in the organization, only returning to religious foundations will open the way for the problems of today's man.